SPECIAL TRAIN WELL EQUIPPED

President Pleased at Arrangements for Quick Communication.

On Board President Harding's special train en route to Ogden, June 26 (AP).—President Harding today moved into the special train en route to Ogden, Utah, for the purpose of attending the celebration at Salt Lake City and the other in Zion National park.

The presidential train crossed the Wyoming state line into Utah early today and continued toward Ogden, where the train will arrive tomorrow morning. The train is well equipped for the journey from Ogden to Salt Lake. The party is due to arrive in the Utah capital shortly before noon.

The program for the president's visit to Salt Lake is as follows: From the station to the hotel, a luncheon, a public reception at the hotel, golf during the afternoon, an organ recital at the Mormon tabernacle, delivery of a formal address at 8:30 in the afternoon, and departure early tomorrow morning for Zion park tomorrow.

The chief executive has selected taxation as the subject of the address he will make in Salt Lake largely because of Utah being the home state of the chairman of the board of the committee which will define further the views of his administration on national questions.

Speaking yesterday in Denver, Mr. Harding made a declaration that he was generally interested in changes in the tariff and in the tariff schedule. He also declared that he was interested in the tariff schedule more stringently.
